Training description

This course provides comprehensive insights into the technical and project management aspects of fiber optics technology, emphasizing its role in supporting smart city initiatives that promote sustainability, efficiency, and innovation. The course aims to empower professionals involved in urban planning, telecommunications and infrastructure development with the necessary skills to scope, initiate, design, implement, and manage fiber optics infrastructure projects tailored for sustainable smart city development in time, within budget, and to the highest quality specifications.

The course employs measurable objectives to ensure that participants not only acquire knowledge but also develop practical skills that can be directly applied to real-world scenarios in fiber optics infrastructure and project management for sustainable smart city development.

For more information about the training objectives, target population, entry requirements, methodology, evaluation and content, consult the page here.

How to apply

In order to register for the training, applicants should:

1. Create an ITU Academy account here
2. Apply for the course here
3. The selection of participants for the course will be made by the course coordinators, based on the course's entry requirements, selection criteria and available number of seats. If selected, you will receive a notification by email.

How to pay for the training

This course is organized by Digital Bridge Institute (DBI), an ITU Academy Training Centre, which will collect the training fees directly.
