Training description

This course addresses one of the most critical enablers of digital transformation: the ability of public institutions to exchange data securely and effectively across organizational and national boundaries. While many countries are modernizing digital government systems, interoperability remains a persistent challenge, especially when legal, organizational, semantic, and technical layers are not aligned. The course provides practical guidance for designing and governing cross-border data exchange ecosystems, drawing on proven approaches such as the Nordic–Baltic experience, the European Interoperability Framework and other global examples. Participants will develop knowledge, awareness, and strategic perspectives to help them plan and support interoperable systems that contribute to more efficient public service delivery, trusted digital cooperation, and stronger institutional readiness over time.

For more information about the training objectives, target population, entry requirements, methodology, evaluation and content, consult the page here.

How to apply

In order to register for the training, applicants should:

1. Create an ITU Academy account here
2. Apply for the course here
3. The selection of participants for the course will be made by the course coordinators, based on the course's entry requirements, selection criteria and available number of seats. If selected, you will receive a notification by email.

How to pay for the training

This course is organized by International Telecommunication Union (ITU), Tallinn University of Technology (TALTECH), an ITU Academy Training Centre, which will collect the training fees directly.

You will find details about the payment process of this Centre at the following link or alternatively in your ITU Academy account under My courses.
